At the Woman's Club.

The annual business meeting of the Woman's Club was held yesterday afternoon in the club parlors. The meeting was a very large and harmonious one, and the reports read by the various officers showed the condition of the club to be very flourishing. The treasurer's report was especially fine and the financial showing excellent.

A very pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a great bouquet of pink roses to the retiring president, Mrs. William G. Stanard. The club has had an unusually good season during Mrs. Stanard's tenure of office, who has done honor to a position filled by a great succession of brilliant women.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. J. Arthur Lefroy, president; Mrs. Thomas Cary Johnson, first vice-president; Miss Jane Rutherford, second vice-president; Mrs. William A. Crenshaw, treasurer; Mrs. John T. ## SOUTH CAROLINA HAS CANDIDATE

Claims of Justice Charles A. Woods as Successor to Judge Goff Advanced.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, March 10.—Senator Smith, of South Carolina, to-day urged upon the Attorney-General the appointment of Justice Charles A. Woods, of the South Carolina Supreme Court, as United States circuit judge to succeed Judge Nathan Goff, of West Virginia, recently elected to the Senate. With Senator Smith were R. K. Carson, of Spartanburg, president of the South Carolina Association, President P. N. Snyder, of Wofford College, and other well-known Palmetto State lawyers.

Senator Smith told the Attorney-General that while various candidates were being urged from Virginia and elsewhere, he thought no man could be found who would be better qualified to assume the duties laid down by Judge Goff than Justice Woods. He said also that it would give the people of South Carolina distinct pleasure in having Justice Woods named for the position.

It is not yet known what will be done in the matter. Since it became apparent a day or two ago that judges of the Commerce Court could be drawn upon in strict conformity to law, it will not be necessary to limit the choosing of a successor to Judge Goff from the two Carolinas, the two Virginias or Maryland, comprising the Fourth Circuit. Any of the Commerce Court judges are eligible.

FIVE MONTHS IN JAIL

Bristol Man Sentenced for Having Killed Member of Mission.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Bristol, Va., March 10.—Charged with having murdered Nelson Archer, a member of the Tennessee militia, whom he killed in a street fight recently, William Moore, a local shooting gallery proprietor, was this afternoon sentenced in the Bristol court to five months in jail. Archer was strangled as the result of blood that flowed from his nose into his windpipe.

ACQUITTED ON THIRD TRIAL

Jury Clears Howard McDaniel on Charge of Attacking Consul.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Fredericksburg, Va., March 10.—The case of Howard McDaniel, of King George County, charged with having criminally attacked his cousin, Ruth McDaniel, a young girl of that county, ended in the Circuit Court of King George County, after the third trial, with a verdict of acquittal. In the first two trials the jury was unable to agree and were discharged. For the third trial a jury was summoned from another county—Caroline County—and resulted in acquittal. The case is one in which a great deal of interest is felt by the people of King George County. There was a strong array of counsel on both sides.

EXTENDS WELCOME TO LAUNDRYMEN

Mayor of Norfolk Greets Members of Association in Semi-annual Meeting.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Norfolk, Va., March 10.—The Virginia and West Virginia Laundrymen's Association met here to-day for its semi-annual convention. Floyd Knight, of Lynchburg, responded to the address of welcome which was delivered by Mayor W. R. Mayo. The meeting was called to order by President W. I. Lydie, and the opening prayer was by Dr. L. D. Mendoza, of Onef Shotom Temple.

Mr. Knight gave Norfolk laundrymen the credit for forming the Virginia and West Virginia Laundry Association, and said that the semi-annual meetings of the organization were for the purpose of trying to educate each other in the best way to serve the people. He said laundrymen also wanted to try to educate the price cutter, and show him how he can be more liberal with his employees and how to handle the "dead beat."

(After declaring the laundry business has kept ahead of business in any other line, and that from a standpoint of labor employed and capital invested it stands about second in the business world, he told a funny story of his start in the laundry trade.)

"I was declared to be a laundryman," he said, "and to make matters worse a young lady one day asked me why I didn't get into some respectable business. I am glad I stuck to it, though, as it is now as respectable as any other, growing from menial labor to a work of art."

J. Thomas Lyons, of Baltimore, representing the Munsey organization, delivered an address on advertising.

This afternoon the delegates were guests of the Tidewater Automobile Association, and enjoyed a run over the city. To-night they were given a banquet by the local laundrymen.

ISSUES KING'S WRITS FOR NEW PARLIAMENT

Sir Kenneth Muir Mackenzie Will Accompany Lord High Chancellor to America.

BY LA MARQUE DE FONTENAY. SIR KENNETH MUIR MACKENZIE, who according to dispatches just received from England, will accompany the Lord High Chancellor across the Atlantic in August to visit the United States and to take part in the annual meeting of the American Bar Association at Montreal, is something more than the "principal and permanent secretary to the Lord Chancellor." For he is the clerk of the crown, his office carrying with it a salary of $10,000 a year, while its importance may be gauged by the fact that he is a member of the King's Privy Council, and possesses the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath.

It is upon him that devolves the duty, on the occasion of all general elections, to issue the King's writs calling for a new Parliament to meet "at the City of Westminster." The writs in question are sent by the clerk of the crown through the mails free of charge, and all sorts of precautions are adopted to insure their safe and speedy transmission, without neglect or delay in delivering or transmitting the writ of the clerk of the crown—such as was occasionally practiced in former days—being a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment.

Writs are sent by him to these temporal peers of England and Wales who do not happen to be minors or undischarged bankrupts, to what are known as the representative peers of Ireland—but not to those of Scotland—to the spiritual peers of Parliament, that is to say, to the archbishops and bishops of English and Welsh Anglican sees, occupying as such seats in the upper house, to the judges of the High Court, not being peers—all for the House of Lords—and where the House of Commons is concerned, to the high sheriffs of counties, to the Mayors of municipal boroughs and to the returning officers of parliamentary boroughs.

In the case of the Commons, the election must be held not less than nine days after the receipt of the writ, and the returning officer, after the poll has been taken, must send to the clerk of the crown his certificate of the result, along with the poll books. With regard to the spiritual peers, they at each general election assemble at Holyrood Palace to choose sixteen of their number to represent them in the House of Lords. The returns of the Holyrood Palace election are communicated by the Lord Register of Scotland to the clerk of the crown.

The latter is the official custodian of all the returns to Parliament for the United Kingdom and Ireland, of all the poll books and ballots used at the elections, and as soon as one general election is finished, the office of the clerk of the crown at once commences preparations for the next general election, although the latter may be seven years off—seven years being the statutory life of a Parliament, unless meanwhile dissolved by the sovereign.

From this it will be seen that the clerk of the crown is one of the most important factors in the legislative existence of Great Britain, and that he forms a sort of connecting link between the crown and the people, since it is he who in the name of the sovereign summons peers, judges, prelates and commoners to assemble for the transaction of the legislative business of the great British empire, "at the City of Westminster."

The present incumbent of the office, the Right Hon. Sir Kenneth Muir Mackenzie, must not be confounded with that Sir Kenneth Douglas Mackenzie who figured the other day in the cable dispatches as having invoked in London the statute of limitations, for the nonpayment of a loan for years ago.

Sir Kenneth Muir Mackenzie, who has just purchased from Lord Edward Grosvenor the latter's Ken Hill estate, in Norfolkshire, an estate of about 5,000 acres, lying within a couple of miles of Sandringham and extending to the Wash foreshore, and including the lands of Queen Alexandra has created a summer bungalow. The estate comprises a famous wild duck decoy, and includes a very spacious and thoroughly up-to-date country house of yellow stone, built some forty years ago.

Sir Kenneth Muir Mackenzie, who has just purchased the Ken Hill estate in the first place for the purpose of advancing the social aspirations of his manufacturing family by becoming a neighbor of King Edward. But his son and successor married one of the Wilsons, of Tisbury, a sister of Miss Muriel Wilson. They are not persons gratiae to King George and Queen Mary, nor yet to Queen Alexandra, and that is why they have been glad to get rid of Ken Hill, where King George will probably live hereafter when in Norfolk, for the future, as York Cottage, his present residence at Sandringham, has become altogether too small and cramped for his accommodation. He is very fond of Sandringham, in course of time the latter and Ken Hill will be united into one large domain. (Copyright, 1913, by the Brentwood Company.)

ALMOST BEYOND HUMAN ENDURANCE

Were the Agonies Which Miss Lance Underwent. She Lives to Tell the Story, However.

Palmer, Okla.—In a letter from this place Miss Forrest E. Lance says: "As I have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, I want to write this letter for publication, as it may be the means of helping other suffering women."

For three years I suffered so at times with my back and bearing down pains I would think I could not possibly endure the pain. I gradually got worse, and would look with dread for these trying times to roll around.

Finally I decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, as I had heard so much of its help to other women, and how glad I am that I did, for I can truthfully say that I have been greatly benefited by taking only four bottles; in fact, it has entirely relieved me.

I can truly sympathize with any sufferer from those awful pains due to womanly trouble, for I have certainly had the experience of them."

As a medicine for women who suffer from the numerous ailments peculiar to their sex, or as a tonic for tired, nervous, worn-out women, Cardui has a record of more than 50 years' success.

It has benefited thousands of women in this time, and should do the same for you.

Give Cardui a trial.

of $250 which he had obtained from a New York acquaintance, David Stanley Brown, and whose unpleasant financial record and frequent appearances in the London Bankruptcy Court, described in these columns. This Sir Kenneth Douglas Mackenzie is of Seaford, in County Ross, and of Tarbat, whereas the clerk of the crown belongs to the Mackenzies of Delvine, of Perthshire.

The head of this particular family is Sir Robert Muir Mackenzie, retired colonel of the Royal Artillery, has his country seat at Delvine Castle, near Murlthly, and is the fourth holder of a baronetcy created a little over a hundred years ago. The clerk of the crown is his brother, and still another brother, namely, the late Sir Alexander Muir Mackenzie, married one of the lovely Moncreiffe sisters, who have included Duchess of Atholl, Helen, Lady Forbes of Newe, and Mrs. Charles Murray, several of their brothers, notably William Moncreiffe, and Malcolm Moncreiffe, having married Americans, and making their homes in this country.

Sir Kenneth Muir Mackenzie holds, in addition to his many other offices, that of warden of the ancient College of Winchester, and despite his years—he is about sixty-six—is still an enthusiast on the subject of football and cricket, in both of which games he achieved much fame as a characterhouse and afterwards at Balliol College, Oxford, in his younger days.

As two Russians of excellent birth have just arrived in the United States by way of San Francisco, one of them a Colonel Skirenko, and the other a Baron von Kheist, it may be just as well to warn kind-hearted American people here and in Canada not to waste any sympathy upon them under the impression that they are political refugees and victims of Muscovite oppression.

The fact of the matter is that they are fugitives from ordinary criminal justice. The one was until the beginning of this year collector of the East Siberian District of Anadyr, and the other a collector of the district of Tchukotka, and each of them having embezzled the government funds entrusted to his care, and confronted with discovery by the Governor of the province, then on a tour of inspection, fled to the United States with every penny piece of official moneys that he could lay hands on. Naturally, warrants have been issued for their arrest, and steps have been taken to obtain their extradition, not as political refugees, but as fugitive embezzlers.

Baron Kleist belongs to the Courland branch of the great Pomeranian house of Kleist, which, forming part of the North German Trudel, was already accounted ancient in the twelfth century and which has furnished some very celebrated statesmen and generals to Prussia, notably Field Marshal Frederick von Kleist, one of the heroes of the War of Liberation a hundred years ago, and Count von Kleist, poet and soldier, who fell by the side of Frederick the Great at the battle of Kunersdorf. The Courland branch of the Kleists is largely represented in the government service of the Czar, and received in 1853 from Emperor Nicholas I. the right to bear, as a Muscovite honor, its Prussian title of baron.

King George has just purchased from Lord Edward Grosvenor the latter's Ken Hill estate, in Norfolkshire, an estate of about 5,000 acres, lying within a couple of miles of Sandringham and extending to the Wash foreshore, and including the lands of Queen Alexandra has created a summer bungalow. The estate comprises a famous wild duck decoy, and includes a very spacious and thoroughly up-to-date country house of yellow stone, built some forty years ago.

TRIAL OF HUTSON WILL END TO-DAY

Only Instructions and Arguments Remain to Be Made Before Jury Takes Case.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Danville, Va., March 10.—When adjourned to-night, the second trial of John R. Hutson, ex-patrolman, for the robbery of $185, was practically finished. The instructions remain to be given to the jury and the arguments heard, which will be confined to an hour on both sides.

If sensations marked the first trial, they did not fall at to-day's hearings. Attorney R. Coleman, already under indictment for the alleged obstruction of administration of justice in this case, this afternoon used an epithet on Police Detective Tucker while testifying, which caused the judge to jump at the attorney. He was restrained by the sheriff before he reached Coleman, who was promptly fined $20 for contempt of court.

The Taylor case will come up tomorrow, as soon as the Hutson case has been given to the jury. It is practically sure that he will plead guilty. It is thought also that the judge will not sentence him until a later date, thereby making it possible for him to appear as a witness against Alderman C. C. Sneed.

CHARRED BODY OF WOMAN FOUND SITTING IN CHAIR

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Winston-Salem, N. C., March 10.—Still sitting in a chair, although burned to a crisp, Little Osborne, a middle-aged white woman, was found in her little home in the woods just outside of the city early to-day. She had been dead for some time, judging from the general appearance of the corpse. Neighbors say the woman had not been seen since Saturday. The coroner is making a thorough investigation, there being a supposition that the woman was murdered before her clothing was set afire.

STATE ENGINEER WILL SURVEY ROAD

Spotsylvania County Soon Will Have Many Miles of Improved Highway.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Spotsylvania, Va., March 10.—J. Thompson Brown, Jr., State Engineer, acting under the authority of the State Highway Commission, began on Saturday the survey of the public road leading from Spotsylvania Courthouse to Snell's Bridge, over the Potomac River, a branch of the Mattaponi River, which covers a distance of about two miles and a half. This road will be permanently improved early this summer, and will intersect the road in Berkeley District, which leads from Snell's Bridge about twenty miles to the Hanover County line, and which will be permanently improved as soon as the $50,000 of bonds to be issued in Berkeley District can be sold.

This will give to Spotsylvania County in this road alone a permanently improved highway forty miles in length, exclusive of other improved highways which intersect this road. F. Walls, John C. Segar, Peter Powell and others who declared their intention of contesting the election held on February 7 last for the bond issue in Livingston and Berkeley Districts have failed to file their petition in the thirty days limit fixed by the statute, and no hindrance will be offered to the bond issue.

KINSEY WINS IN PRIMARY

Defeats Former Sheriff Nicholson in Race for House of Delegates.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Roanoke, Va., March 10.—D. A. Kinsey, former member of the House of Delegates from Franklin defeated ex-Sheriff D. A. Nicholson on Saturday in the primary election for member in the House of Delegates, by a majority of 29 in a total vote of about 1,000.

R. J. Coleman will oppose the Democratic candidate as an independent. The campaign has been very warm. Mr. Kinsey was backed by the county organization, although both he and Mr. Nicholson are regarded as "machine" men.

Mr. Kinsey in the last Legislature voted for submission of the liquor question to the voters.
